

SQUATTERS DRIVEN AWAY.

All but Mrs. Norton Obey the Notices of the Health Board.

She Was Forced to Leave Her Home of Forty Years To-Day.

The Health Department has at last been successful in dislodging the squatters who for the last quarter of a century or more have lived in wretched shanties between Park and Madison avenues, between One Hundred and Fifteenth street and One Hundred and Nineteenth street. The shanties were long ago condemned as a menace to public health, and the tenants have received repeated notices to vacate.

Having no place to go, and feeling a sort of ownership to the rocks on which their frail homes were merely hanging, many of the squatters refused to go.

Last Saturday, however, they received a peremptory order from the Health Department to vacate on five days. Yesterday was the fifth day, and this morning Sergeant Cruise, of the Health Department, sent five policemen to see that those that had not yet moved should be made to do so.

The policemen found less to do than they expected. The entire block bounded by Madison and Fifth avenues and One Hundred and Seventeenth and One Hundred and Eighteenth streets, which is the rocky bluff some thirty feet above the street, was in the possession of Mrs. Norton, an aged widow, who had lived in her shanty for forty years without being disturbed. At the command of the policemen she sorrowfully locked her door and went to look for a room.

All the rest of the squatters on this block, numbering about fifteen, have either moved or complied with the Health Board orders by putting in shanties.

The rocks between One Hundred and Fifteenth and One Hundred and Nineteenth streets, along Madison and Fifth avenues, are also nearly swept clean of the obnoxious shanties, and the residents of the flats along Madison avenue are watching the removal with pleasure.

The gents that have climbed the rocks for years seemed even more loath to leave than their owners, and some of them that were taken to Washington Heights have returned, and were lunching at noon today on paper and rag left behind by the squatters.

MONEY ON THE JUDGE'S NOSE

Krieger Also Took a Bird Out of an Officer's Ear and Was Set Free.

When "Prof." L. Krieger, of 54 Orchard street, who was arrested at the Coleman House for being drunk, was arraigned at Jefferson Market Court today Krieger stepped up before the Justice and, reaching out his hand, took a canary bird out of a court officer's ear. Then he pulled a half-dollar from the end of Justice McMahon's nose, shook his golden curls, bowed and said:

"I am a prelatidigitator, and I can't you can't in this court," said Justice McMahon hastily. "I'll discharge you this time. Use your magic to remain sober after this."

Revising Traffic Rules.

The meeting of the representatives of the Southern Railroad, comprising the Southern Railway and Steamship Association, who have been in session for the last few days at the Waldorf Hotel, continued their deliberations this morning.

The object of the gathering is to discuss a new agreement for next year. The report of the sub-committee appointed to study the traffic and transportation contracts has been adopted, and an agreement of last year, which expires Aug. 1, was renewed.

OLD BOARD'S LOOSE SYSTEM.

Brooklyn Aldermen Begin Investigating Excise Accounts.

How Cashier Lohman Managed to Steal $10,400.

The Aldermanic committee of Brooklyn, appointed to investigate the affairs of the various departments under the old administration, met today in the City Hall and began an inquiry into the business methods of the old Excise Board, under whose regime it was possible for ex-cashier William D. Lohman to systematically steal amounts aggregating $10,400.

Aldermen Hubert, Hesse and Clark were present, the latter presiding. Policeman Charles H. Tibbitt, of the Central Office squad, was the first witness called. He produced books of the Department kept by ex-Secretary Short, Michael Clark and Application Clerk.

Chief Accountant Brown, of the Board of Audit, testified to having made an examination of ex-cashier Lohman's accounts after his secret departure to Canada. He found a deficit of $10,400.

Chief Clerk Tibbitt said it was the custom of the Excise Commissioners to sign licenses and hand them to Lohman, who allowed them to accumulate. A batch of signed licenses was produced in evidence.

Col. Brown said that between December, 1893, and February, 1894, Lohman failed to account for 361 first-class licenses at $10 each; 16 second-class licenses at $5 each, and two third-class at $2 each.

This made a deficit of $3,920, but subsequently a check was found in the safe, which reduced the amount to $10,400. Col. Brown recommended that the present cashier be compelled to keep a petty cash account and to enter up each license as it was issued.

Gave a Bad Check for a Baseball.

A man visited H. A. Kiff's sporting goods store, 218 Fulton street, Brooklyn, today and bought a baseball for $1. He gave a check for $15 and departed with the change. The check proved to be worthless.

GEORGE H. WEYER IN JAIL.

Accused of Fraud by Mount Vernon Carpenters.

He Is Locked Up in Default of $6,500 Bail.

George H. Weyer, a real estate dealer of this city, was arrested late yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Walgreen, and in default of $6,500 bail was lodged in the Mount Vernon Jail on an order signed by Justice Dykman of the Supreme Court in Westchester County.

The complaints against Weyer are, Sabine, Guarino and Pasquella, Carpenters, carpenters and builders of Mount Vernon, who charge him with fraudulent misrepresentations in making a contract with them.

The trouble, according to the affidavits, resulted from a contract the carpenters made to build six houses for Weyer at Columbus avenue and Sixth street, Mount Vernon, for $5,000.

The complainants allege Weyer was insolvent when he made the contract and represented that he was wealthy.

They state that he assured them that he owned the lots on which the houses were to be erected and seventeen lots adjoining, and that there was only a mortgage of $1,200 on the whole.

On these representations, the plaintiffs allege, they erected the houses and furnished much of the material. They claim that they have since discovered that when Weyer obtained title to the property it was subject to a mortgage of $12,000, and in October preceding the making of the contracts with the plaintiffs that Weyer executed another mortgage on the property for $5,000, and in a few months after the contract Weyer placed another mortgage of $14,000 on the property.

The plaintiffs allege that Weyer has only paid them on account $2,500, and that there is still due them $3,500, for which they bring suit.

DUTIES OF BRIDGE KEEPERS.

Brooklyn Grand Jury Looking Into the Subject.

They Are Under Control of the Police Department.

There was a stir among police officials at Headquarters, in Brooklyn, this morning, when it became known that members of the Grand Jury had visited the building early in the day to get certain information regarding the work of the Department.

It was discovered later that the Grand Jury had begun investigating the duties imposed upon the bridge-keepers. Under a law passed last year, these employees of the city were placed under the jurisdiction of the Police Department.

The members of the Grand Jury were introduced to Inspector Mackellar, who gave them a great deal of information concerning the subject under investigation.

The Grand Jury learned that there were thirty-eight bridge-keepers employed to look after six bridges. Six men were detailed to each bridge, three remaining on duty from 4 A. M. to noon and the other three from noon till 4 P. M.

The Grand Jury discovered that there was one bridge which is operated by steam, and that the men employed there have many holidays.

The Grand Jury will probably go further into the matter next week, and the result of their investigation will probably furnish the basis of a presentment.
